INTRODUCTION

Write an insightful introduction that gets your reader interested.

1.1 OVERVIEW OF THE INFO BOXES

DEFINITION: This is a definition, the word or phrase in bold is the term being defined. Most are adapted from the literature and are used for important elements that are not common knowledge for photonic engineers.

Definitions usually have a source in the footer

This is an info box, it contains a remark that is tangential or useful for the understanding of the document, but not essential.

Note: This is a note, additional information that is not essential for the understanding of the document, but is useful for the reader.

This is a question box, it contains an important research question or hypothesis that is being investigated in the document.

The footer contains a link to where the question is answered.

This is a conclusion or summary box, it contains a summary with key information that are needed for subsequent sections. Additionally, this is where answers to questions and hypothesis are given.
